GROUSSET'S ROLE IN THE EARTH. What it Was Proposed to Find Out Seems to Be Pretty Well Known

The mile hole in the earth which M-Paschal Grousset proposes to dig at the Paris exposition in 1900 is not so extraordinary after all, when the depth is considered, says the New York World. In many parts of the world are mines which have reached a point as near a nearer the center of the earth than the one in Paris will.

In Beigium the Vivieres-Reunis mine been prolonged and several fighting between the froops and several insurgent bands in the direction of the Perim mountains. Reinforcements are being hurried to the scene.

LONDON.—The Times today publishes a column letter from Bertram Currie, president of the gold standard defense association, in reply to a statement isiade by Henry C. Gibbs, director of the bank of England, and president of the inetallic league in the Times, July II. Currie says. "The bimetallists are enthusiastic, ill-advised agitators, instead of practical reformers."

In Bergium the Vivieres-Reunis ming in the province of Gilly, is 1,100 meters deep. The Paris hole will be 1,200 meters to surface and at Schledbach, also insidermany, ther is one which has penetrated to the depth of 1,510 meters. At Whesling, W. Va., there is a mine meanly 5,000 feet deep.

tion of the carth's interior at Paris is to ascertain some facts regarding the temperature a comparatively little distance towards the center of the earth and so to make some speculations that will not be all guesswork as to the existence of a central fire it may be stated that at the Sperenberg mine the highest degree of heat recorded is 119 Fahrenhelt, at Schledbach IS and at Wheeling 110. The temperature in-

The Paris project, which was at first hailed with considerable enthusiasm. is now being talked of with lukewarm-ness, the thrifty Galilemind baving re-alized the large amount of money it would cost and its uselessness as a money-earning novelty after the expo-

QUESTIONS OF HEALTH.

The popular notion that an athlete, cause of his athleticism, is a health; is a dejustive one. Muscular development is not an affair of the constitution; it is

is not an affair of the constitution; it is an accident. Strong limbs and a weak heart are, not infrequently, associates. Many a "strong man" dies prematurely of consumption. It health may be defined as a capacity for holding on to life, then, in many cases, the weaklings are the healthlest.

If such a desinition is accurate, women are healthler than men; their average length of days is greater than our. But it is doubtful if centenarians, merely because they are centearians, are the healthlest. I know a case of a woman, who recently died at the are of his who was slightly paralyzed, even as a child, and who was practically, comeletely so for more than seventy years. Could such a one have ever been correctly described as healthly? It is as hard to say what he is an to may what health is, and the train which unhealthly folks are terision.
